Develop trilateral projects with French and African partners Fulbright Specialist - Special call for trilateral projects.

The Department of State (ECA) and the Franco-American Fulbright Commission are pleased to announce the establishment of a new program that aims to bring Fulbright Specialists to France and African countries. All African countries except for South Africa are eligible. This new Fulbright program explores the potential for developing trilateral cooperation between the US, France and African countries (except South Africa).

The objective is multifold:

Develop increased cooperation in eligible fields with Africa using both the U.S. and French networks in the continent

Respond to an emerging demand in the U.S. for mobility in more than one country.

Facilitate the development of trilateral institutional linkages in order to facilitate the design of innovative study-research abroad opportunities for US, French and African students and scholars.

Develop capacities to host US students and scholars interested in Francophone destinations in both France and Africa.
