At American University Washington College of Law, students receive a legal education that prepares them to tackle a breadth of challenges in Washington, D.C., throughout the country, and around the world. Our LL.M. programs feature flexible curricula that incorporate a rich array of specialized law courses and seminars and experiential learning opportunities. As a student, you will be supported by a law school community that is uniquely collaborative, including faculty who are passionate about education and a global network of LL.M. alumni. We invite you to discover what an LL.M. degree from Washington College of Law can do for you. The Doctor of Juridical Science (S.J.D.) is the most advanced law degree at American University Washington College of Law. The program is designed for highly qualified lawyers seeking to pursue scholarly research and writing. The program selects candidates who are prepared to write a doctoral dissertation, who will make original contributions to the legal literature, and who have a strong intellectual commitment to advanced legal study.

Loyola Law School, with a campus designed by world-renowned architect Frank Gehry, is ideally positioned in Los Angeles—a legal, tech, media, fashion, and financial capital. We are the closest ABA-accredited law school to LA's primary courthouse and law firm scene, yet only 30 minutes away from the beautiful beaches of Santa Monica and Malibu.

Our strong 18,000+ alumni network reaches across the United States and into 35 different countries, and includes current and former ambassadors, governors, high-level government officials, movie studio executives, and business leaders. With more than 800 partners at major law firms, Loyola alumni can be found at every level of private practice, the judiciary, in-house corporations, government, and public interest organizations.

Home to prominent faculty, dedicated students, and cutting-edge programs with a strong sense of social justice, the school takes advantage of its prime location with a record number of networking events. Our LLM students come to Loyola to master the American and international legal system and gain fruitful practice experience during and after their stay on campus.

"We think of Loyola's campus as our home and we want to make our students feel the same. We strive to give our students a personal approach, where faculty and staff members are committed to your success. We want to know you, we want to guide you, we want to help you achieve your goals!"—Professor Aaron Ghirardelli, LLM Director

Loyola Chicago's LLM Program for International Lawyers, launched in 2012, has enrolled students from over 50 countries worldwide who have formed a strong global network. Many of our accomplished young lawyers begin their post-graduate careers in Chicago and stay involved with Loyola's community. We admit only a fairly small group of students both in January and in August, which allows us to provide individualized academic and career counseling throughout the course of your study and beyond. Loyola's faculty are noted researchers, inspiring teachers, and engaged advisors who deeply care about their students' progress.

Loyola's LLM Program for International Lawyers features two tracks: Immersion in U.S. Law for Foreign Lawyers (Track I), and International Law with Focus Option (Track II). This structure allows our students great flexibility to design their curriculum and meet their own academic and professional interests. Many choose a certificate focus in a field of law offered by Loyola's centers and institutes: arbitration, mediation, and negotiation; business; child and family; competition; environmental; health; human rights; immigration; intellectual property; tax; or trade law. Others develop their own focus under the guidance of Loyola's faculty. The innovative curriculum of over 200 courses per year includes core subjects, challenging upper-level courses, and classes that teach professional skills necessary for effective participation in the legal profession. The international students join the JD students in the class rooms to promote integration and cross-cultural learning.

At NYU, you will find powerhouse graduate programs in business and finance, international law, and taxation. You will learn from more than 100 influential academics in areas as diverse as constitutional law, criminal law, economic analysis of law, environmental law, legal philosophy, intellectual property, and competition policy. You will train for the profession through practice-based options, such as transactional classes, simulation courses, and clinical opportunities, and explore new perspectives on legal questions by attending classes at other divisions of the university. You will join classmates from around the world who will bring their insights and experience to the classroom while becoming your friends and personal global network.

All this happens at NYU Law's campus in Greenwich Village in downtown Manhattan. It is a charming and vibrant place with a neighborhood feel and energetic culture. You will engage with New York's leading practitioners and policymakers both in and out of the classroom. Visits from prominent government officials; members of the judiciary; and leaders of the UN, international organizations, and NGOs will further enrich your experience.

NYU Law's Graduate Division, one of the largest and most diverse in the nation, offers an array of degrees and programs, including nine different LLM degrees and a JSD. You will enjoy the flexibility to design your curriculum, whether as a student in the Master of Laws program or one of our eight LLM specializations. Members of our faculty direct each of our programs, serving as mentors to the students.

The nine-month general LLM program offers outstanding graduates of foreign law schools an opportunity to expand their knowledge of American law and legal processes, continue their studies in international law, and engage in comparative legal research. Graduates of the program represent more than 50 countries and hold prominent positions in many areas of practice. They include attorneys, professors, judges, corporate counsel, consultants, human rights workers, bankers, and civil servants. Our lakefront location in the heart of downtown Chicago provides a spectacular setting in which to live and study. A major world financial center, Chicago is the third largest city in the United States and one of its largest legal markets. Northwestern Law's proximity to courts, commerce, and public interest activities enables students to experience the practice of law, as well as its theory, in one of the most vibrant legal and business communities in the world. The Northwestern Law community is distinguished for its hospitality, friendliness, and sincerity. To many international students, it is highly favorable to study and to live in such a supportive environment.

Strong rankings. Personal Attention. Top Value.

5 Reasons to earn an LLM Degree from Temple:

1. Strong and Flexible Curriculum: Tailor your courses to meet your needs, including those necessary to prepare for a bar exam. Take classes with American J.D. and other international students to build a global network.
2. Location: Philadelphia may become your new favorite American city. The cost of living is lower than most East Coast cities and it is strategically located between New York and Washington, D.C.
3. Dedicated Support: Our team offers career guidance and academic support to help you achieve your goals, and our American J.D. students provide mentoring and friendship through study partnerships.
4. Distinguish Yourself: Expand your career possibilities by earning an American law degree. Refine your ability to analyze, write, and present American legal concepts in English.
5. Value: Temple is a top-ranked law school, with particular strength in International Law, Legal Research and Writing, and Trial Advocacy. Our tuition is reasonable and less than many comparable LL.M. programs. We also consider all applicants for merit or need-based partial tuition scholarships.

"Studying at Temple University provided an invaluable opportunity to hone my legal research, writing, and advocacy skills. A personal highlight was writing a research paper on the role of legal mechanisms in reducing the impact of damaging political disinformation online. Another, was bringing a moot court case to the United States Court of Appeals, Philadelphia." - Thomas O'Keefe, 2020 LL.M. alumnus

The Ohio State University Moritz College of Law LLM program is designed for qualified lawyers from all over the globe interested in learning about the American legal system. Moritz is a small, tight-knit community: the LLM program is intentionally limited to 35–40 students. As a student at Ohio State, you'll get the best of both worlds: close interaction with classmates and faculty, individualized academic and professional development advising, and experiential learning opportunities at one of the nation's preeminent public law schools within of one of the country's most comprehensive and largest research universities with a wealth of resources to offer students.

Our comprehensive LLM program is fully integrated with American students and offers concentrations in key legal areas, including corporate law, intellectual property, international law, dispute resolution. Students have the opportunity to learn both in and outside of the classroom through Public Externships, D.C. Externships, moot court and a variety of clinics. In addition, you have the option to apply to transfer from the LLM to the JD program. Ohio State is located in the thriving city of Columbus, the capital of Ohio and 14th largest city in the United States. Students love Columbus because it too offers the best of both worlds: Fortune 500 companies, national hockey and soccer leagues, research institutes, and a thriving arts and culinary scene mean that Columbus offers all the advantages of a large metropolitan area, but it still maintains the friendliness, charm, and affordability for which the Midwest is known.

Lawyers from all over the world come to The University of Texas at Austin to expand the breadth and depth of their legal knowledge and invest in an internationally recognized Master of Laws. The LL.M. Program is diverse, selective, and small with a maximum of 50 spots for each incoming class. LL.M. students from foreign countries and the U.S. are fully integrated into the academic life of the Law School, learning side by side with J.D. students. The LL.M. class is global in reach, with 35 students from 25 different countries in the Class of 2020, including 6 Fulbright students. In fact, The University of Texas at Austin is home to over 5,000 international students, and the rich diversity on our campus is essential to our success as a global learning community. In addition to being ranked among the top 16 national law schools and among the top 5 public law schools in the nation, Texas Law also has the most affordable tuition among the top 20 law schools in the nation. The University of Texas School of Law offers a single LL.M. degree with six different concentrations. Our LL.M. concentrations are: Business Law, Cybersecurity Law (ranked by LLM Guide among the top 10 LL.M. Programs for Cybersecurity Law), Global Energy, International Arbitration & Environmental Law (ranked by LLM Guide among the top 10 LL.M. Programs for Energy Law), Human Rights & Comparative Constitutional Law, Latin American & International Law, and U.S. Law for Foreign Lawyers.

For more than 85 years, The Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy has worked to educate and prepare individuals for positions of national and international leadership and influence. Through a deep and multifaceted understanding of the world's most pressing challenges, and with the guiding principles of mutual benefit, security, and justice, our community endeavors to maintain the stability and prosperity of the complex and increasingly global society of the 21st century. The International Law LL.M. program at the Fletcher School for Law and Diplomacy at Tufts University is uniquely situated to prepare attorneys for work in the evolving field of international law. Our integrative approach to legal education includes a core of international law courses, which are complemented by courses in diplomacy, political science, economics, and international business, depending on each student's interests. Our small individualized program means that students have the support and flexibility to tailor a program that matches their academic interests and career goals. Every student has a faculty mentor, who is available for guidance on career paths and selecting classes, and often serves as a thesis advisor. Our students find that attending a school focused on the intersection of law and diplomacy lends a unique perspective to their training in international law. At Fletcher, you'll find a vibrant academic environment both inside and outside of the classroom. Our study body hails from around the globe, and we are proud of our strong sense of community. Study here and you'll find friends from around the world.

Tulane Law School is the nation's 12th oldest law school, and yet is anything but stodgy. From its founding in 1847, Tulane has always prided itself as a place of intense creativity and innovation in the study of law. Its location in Louisiana, the country's sole civil-law jurisdiction, gives Tulane a distinctive understanding of the interaction of different legal systems and is the foundation for Tulane's world-renowned strength in international and comparative law. The unique exposure our students gain to both the common law of the Anglo-American tradition and the civil-law systems that dominate the rest of the globe is an increasingly powerful advantage in a world in which business, governance, and law practice are increasingly transnational. The distinctively global perspective of Tulane Law is enlivened by a student body drawn from approximately 35 countries, by Tulane-led academic programs in a half-dozen countries abroad, and by an international faculty whose scholarly distinction ranges from advising on constitutional design in Iraq, Egypt, and Tunisia, and legal barriers to Russian gas pipelines to Europe, to intercultural negotiation of legal and political conflicts.

Berkeley Law is one of the premier law schools in the United States. A Berkeley Law degree means studying law at one of the top law schools in the United States, a public institution committed to academic excellence, social engagement, and intellectual and cultural diversity. It means coming to a place where we've been teaching LL.M. students for over 60 years; J.D. students, more than 100. It means learning from and engaging with internationally renowned faculty and distinguished scholars. It means creating long-lasting relationships with legal professionals from around the globe. And it means living in the San Francisco Bay Area, one of the world's most culturally and intellectually stimulating regions in California.

Berkeley Law has a diverse and constantly evolving curriculum, including our top-ranked Intellectual Property, International Law, Social Justice, and Environmental Law programs. Faculty members—some of the best legal minds in the business—embody the school's commitment to academic vigor, multidisciplinary research, and intellectual diversity. One of the hallmarks of the J.D. and LL.M. programs is the diversity of its student body, faculty, and curriculum. Such diversity is critical in a law school, which must train its graduates to analyze and interpret the law, reflect on competing viewpoints, present persuasive arguments in a variety of forums, and develop insightful and effective policies affecting broad swaths of society.

But what sets Berkeley Law apart is its real-world focus. Experiential learning opportunities, like pro bono work, clinics, journals, and practica, give students the chance to gain hands-on legal and public policy experience. Our major think tanks—home to some of our most forward-looking research and outreach—serve as laboratories where law students can collaborate with some of the most innovative thinkers in the legal profession.

Specializations and Popular Programs:

Berkeley Law's LL.M. is a general degree program that allows for customization based on individual interests and goals. Our LL.M. curriculum, taught by Berkeley Law's world-class faculty, is designed to provide a strong basis in the fundamentals of U.S. law while allowing for specialization. Students have the option to focus their studies and earn certificates of specialization, pursue eligibility to register for a U.S. Bar Exam, or complete a thesis. Berkeley Law provides three paths to the LL.M. degree: the traditional track, the thesis track, and the executive track. Students can choose the path that best fits their schedule. Berkeley Law LL.M. students can specialize in the following areas: Business Law, Law & Technology, Public Law & Regulation, Environmental Law, Energy and Environmental Law, Energy & Clean Technology Law, International Law. Berkeley Law also offers a program for professional development, the Professional Legal Education program, which gives eligible registrants the chance to take courses or pursue certificates at Berkeley Law on a non-degree basis.

Funding assistance / scholarships / partial fee waivers available for international students:

- Merit scholarships/assistantships available for international law students
- All scholarships are offered AFTER admission.
- For Traditional Track Only:

ADP Scholarship: Berkeley Law offers a competitive scholarship program offering full tuition paid for admitted LL.M. traditional track students with superior academic credentials, for whom Berkeley Law is their first choice. Because funds are extremely limited, the ADP Scholarship can only be provided to two outstanding applicants each year.

Social Justice Scholarship: The Social Justice Scholarship was developed to increase diversity of practice in Berkeley Law's LL.M. program by encouraging enrollment of students with demonstrated interest in Social Justice and Public Policy. Because funds are extremely limited, the Social Justice Scholarship can only be provided to one outstanding applicant each year. $40,000 credit toward tuition ($20,000 per semester).

Fulbright Supplement: The Fulbright Scholarship is intended to attract students who have received a Fulbright Scholarship nomination. Because funds are extremely limited, the Fulbright Scholarship can only be provided to a few outstanding applicants each year, ranging from $20,000 to $40,000.

- For Executive Track Only:

LDC Scholarship: The LDC Scholarship was developed to encourage enrollment of students from Least Developed Countries. As defined by the United Nations, these are the poorest and most vulnerable countries in our international community. 48 countries are currently categorized as LDCs. Half-tuition award for students from UN-designated LDC countries.

Asia Pacific Scholarship: The Asia Pacific Scholarship was developed to encourage enrollment of students from the following countries in the Asia/Pacific region:

India, Indonesia, Malaysia, The Maldives, The Philippines, Pakistan, Sri Lanka, Thailand, Vietnam. $10,000 credit toward tuition.

Latin America Scholarship: The Latin America Scholarship was developed to encourage enrollment of students from Latin American countries that are underrepresented in the program. $10,000 credit toward tuition.

Global Reach Scholarship: The Global Reach Scholarship was developed to encourage enrollment of students from countries that have not ever been, or have rarely been, represented in the program. $15,000.

African Legal Impact Scholarship: The African Legal Impact Scholarship was developed to encourage enrollment of students from Africa seeking advanced legal education. Two awards are available for academically qualified students. This is a full-tuition waiver offered to two students each summer. Recipients will be responsible for paying only the $1,000 seat deposit each summer, plus living expenses.

- For All Tracks:

Matching Consideration Scholarship Program: Berkeley Law will consider matching awards for applicants who have received a scholarship or financial aid offer from another LL.M. program and are interested in receiving a scholarship offer for our LL.M. program. Awards submitted for matching consideration can be from any school and any type of LL.M. program.

The University of California Hastings Law, located in the heart of San Francisco, California, was established in 1878 as the first law department of the University of California system. For more than 125 years, UC Hastings has educated prominent leaders in the judiciary and the bar, in government and business, and in education. UC Hastings prides itself on its academic curriculum, and our innovative, hands-on clinical legal education offerings. UC Hastings is home to several nationally acclaimed legal centers and is known for our cutting-edge programs that allow students to take advantage of our key location in the center of the technology corridor of San Francisco and Silicon Valley.

LLM students at UC Hastings come from over 60 countries, and have a wide variety of experience both abroad and in the United States. Our LLM class is a close-knit group who find social and academic support within their cohort, while creating lasting friendships with their Juris Doctor (JD) peers. Our LLM students are fully integrated with all of our law students on campus, and take all but two classes together with our JD students. With over 175 courses offered each year, few other US law schools offer as wide a selection of courses open to LLM and JD students alike, including our hands-on experiential courses and clinics. Our LLM students receive one-on-one academic and career counseling and choose courses based on their personal and professional interests.

- Dean's Tuition Fellowship:

<https://law.ucla.edu/admissions/llm-admissions/scholarships-financial-aid>

The program can offer LL.M. students one form of institutional financial assistance, which are the Dean's Tuition Fellowships. These limited, competitive fellowships are awarded based on merit and financial circumstances, and will be assessed towards tuition fees – they cannot be applied towards living expenses. Award amounts typically fall between 20% and 30% of the cost of tuition; the fellowship cannot cover the full cost of tuition, and in the majority of cases, recipients will receive between 10% and 40% of tuition fees. Consideration for the award is based on factors relating to both merit – academic and professional achievement – and financial circumstances or need. All LL.M. applicants (both American and foreign-educated law graduates) are eligible for consideration. Due to the competitive nature of these fellowships, we cannot guarantee that all applicants will receive the Dean's Tuition Fellowship if granted admission. Strong academic performance/background, English skills, and other standout abilities in the remaining components of the application may provide for a competitive advantage and could certainly grant candidates favorable consideration by the Graduate Studies Committee. There is no separate/formal application for these fellowships. When applying, applicants should indicate whether they would like to be considered for the fellowship by simply noting this the online application in the "Finances" section.

The University of Chicago offers the combination of a small LLM. program with a real sense of community, a challenging academic experience, and an exciting urban location in one of the great cities of the world. Our LLM graduates say that their year at the Law School had a great impact on both their subsequent personal and professional lives. They also look back fondly at the friendships that developed and the experiences they shared with classmates and others in the University community. Critical reasoning is a crucial part of the University of Chicago Law School experience - perhaps our defining characteristic. Our faculty and students are deeply involved in the "life of the mind," as we call it, and delight in spending their days challenging each other to dig ever deeper into the law as an intellectual discipline. The Law School has assembled a faculty that is distinguished for its scholarship and its teaching ability. Many LLM students are surprised to discover how accessible and available the faculty are. The custom is for faculty to work in their offices with their doors open. Students do not need to make appointments to meet with them. A significant portion of the faculty represents academic fields other than law, including economics, history, philosophy, and political science. The strong orientation of the faculty toward research provides students with unusually good opportunities and LLM students often do independent research projects with members of the faculty.

Penn Carey Law's LLM program is a one-year, full-time course of study in advanced legal topics designed primarily for lawyers trained outside the United States. Penn Law grants a generalized LLM that allows each student to design his or her own curriculum. After completing the five-week, five credit pre-term program, students select courses from an extensive curriculum of specialized courses, clinics and seminars, taking courses alongside our JD students.

Our LLM students are also eligible to enroll in the Wharton Business and Law Certificate, a custom designed program for Penn Law LLM students taught by Wharton faculty and industry experts selected for their teaching skills, subject expertise and ability to offer applied concepts and examples to participants. All LLM students may participate in this program which runs concurrently with the LLM program.

As an integral part of the program, the LLM Public Service Program provides students with important opportunities to develop their professional skills while learning more about the communities that exist beyond the walls of Penn Law as well as supporting students seeking to satisfy the New York Bar pro bono requirement. LLMs also work closely with JDs in student groups ranging from Journal of International Law to Penn Soccer Club.

Penn Carey Law has staff dedicated to supporting LLMs, including a Career Counselor who provides LLM specific programming and materials as well as ample availability to meet individually with LLM students.

McGeorge School of Law has grown into an internationally recognized leader in the field of legal education since its establishment in 1924. Its location in Sacramento, the capital of California, has shaped its focus on public law, international law, and advocacy. With its close proximity to the State Capitol, San Francisco, Napa Valley and Lake Tahoe, McGeorge's Sacramento campus is a prime location for living and learning. McGeorge is dedicated to special programming and personalized support to international students.

McGeorge's distinguished faculty and adjuncts offer our students a wide range of expertise. Faculty members range from co-authors of widely respected law books to the 2017 Stockholm Water Prize Laureate.

LLM and JSD students at McGeorge build networks with students from all over the world. LLM and JSD students take classes alongside JD students. These interactions enhance the overall learning experience and provide practical, real-world knowledge, and create lasting bonds.

An LLM degree from McGeorge prepares you for the future. Whether you are working towards bar exam eligibility, finding the perfect job or pursuing further legal studies, McGeorge helps you achieve your goals. McGeorge offers advanced graduate law programs focusing on Transnational Business Practice, Water & Environmental Law, and U.S. Law & Policy to both U.S. and foreign-trained attorneys. Our Career Development Office offers dedicated services to International Students including resume review, mock interviews and the opportunity to participate in international job fairs.

Vanderbilt Law School is a top ranked law school located on the beautiful Vanderbilt University campus set in the urban heart of Nashville, Tennessee. The law school combines the advantages of a stimulating university community, a top-tier faculty, a small, carefully selected student body, and a sophisticated, vibrant city. Vanderbilt Law School attracts law students seeking a first-rate academic institution that also affords an excellent quality of life.

Vanderbilt offers three LL.M. program options: a general LL.M. degree, a specialized LL.M. in Law and Business, and a Thesis Track option. All program options offer the courses required to qualify for the New York bar exam.

Vanderbilt LL.M. students choose their courses from the law school's extensive curriculum to concentrate in areas including Law & Business; Law & Innovation, Litigation & Dispute Resolution; Intellectual Property; International Legal Studies; Energy, Environment and Land Use; and Criminal Justice. Students interested in focusing on Corporate Law have the opportunity to earn the LL.M. degree with a certificate of specialization in Law & Business.

LL.M. students are fully integrated into the Vanderbilt community, studying alongside American and other international students in the J.D. program. Vanderbilt's small LL.M. program size makes it possible for students to enjoy greater access to faculty and promotes a sense of community that is one of Vanderbilt's most distinguishing attributes. An extensive network of more than 8,500 alumni in 49 states, DC, three US territories, and 32 foreign nations reflects the school's national and international reach.
