Academic Excellence

With roots dating to 1790, the University of Pennsylvania Carey Law School builds on a rich tradition of interdisciplinarity, collegiality, and service, combined with a strong commitment to access and innovation. Together, these defining strengths prepare students to chart their own path in a rapidly evolving legal landscape—whether leading at the intersection of law and technology, serving the public interest, shaping business and policy, or pursuing new opportunities across the profession.

Designed for lawyers trained outside the United States, our full-time LLM degree program features a rigorous, customizable curriculum taught by world-class faculty. Tailor your studies through an extensive selection of courses, pursue concentrations in Intellectual Property and Technology Law or Energy, Security, and Human Rights, and take advantage of the University of Pennsylvania's interdisciplinary resources to prepare for leadership in a legal profession increasingly shaped by technological innovation and global change.

Wharton Business and Law Certificate (WBLC)

Prepare for success in today's interconnected legal and business environments with the Wharton Business and Law Certificate, available exclusively to Penn Carey Law LLM students. Open to all LLM students, the program is taught by leading Wharton faculty, completed concurrently with the LLM degree, and requires no separate application.

Enrich Your Education

At Penn Carey Law, learning extends beyond the classroom. Join a vibrant, collaborative community by exploring student organizations, journals, competitions, and leadership opportunities. Whether contributing to the Journal of International Law or another publication, participating in professional organizations, or building friendships with fellow students, you'll become part of a global network that supports your personal and professional growth.

Experiential Learning and Pro Bono

Develop practical skills through clinics, bootcamps, and other practice-focused courses that connect legal theory with real-world challenges. Through pro bono opportunities and experiential learning, you'll gain hands-on experience while contributing to Penn Carey Law's longstanding commitment to service.

Accelerate Your Success

Your Penn Carey Law LLM experience begins with our innovative five-week, five-credit Pre-Term Program. Designed for internationally trained lawyers, it provides a foundation in the U.S. legal system while introducing you to legal research and writing, professional development, and life at Penn Carey Law. By the start of the academic year, you'll have the foundation to excel academically and professionally.

Office of Career Strategy

Our dedicated LLM Career Counselor partners with you throughout your academic journey, offering individualized career advising, networking and employer connections, and programs focused on the global legal marketplace. From resume and interview preparation to career exploration, you'll receive personalized support as you pursue your professional goals.
