LE CENTRE EDUCATIONUSA

Le centre EducationUSA fait partie de la Commission Fulbright franco-américaine. Son rôle est de fournir des informations et des conseils d'ordre général sur le système universitaire américain. Il est géré et animé par une conseillère/documentaliste qui connait le système éducatif américain dans toute sa diversité et qui est en mesure de décoder ce système pour les étudiants, chercheurs, et administrateurs des établissements français d'enseignement secondaire et supérieur.

Tous les conseillers du réseau EducationUSA sont tenus d'informer leur public de façon neutre et objective.

Si vous souhaitez une aide personnalisée, il vous est possible de rencontrer une conseillère pour une consultation individuelle. Elle est disponible du mardi au vendredi entre 10h et 17h soit dans son bureau à Paris (uniquement mardi et vendredi), soit à distance (Zoom ou Skype). Pour fixer la date du RDV, inscrivez-vous à partir de notre page web : http://www.fulbright-france.org/fr/prendre-rendez-vous. Il faut prévoir des frais de consultation de 25€ pour 45 min à régler en ligne par Paypal ou carte bancaire au moment de la réservation du rendez-vous.

Pour rester informé(e) de nos activités et actualités inscrivez-vous à notre newsletter mensuelle : http://www.fulbright-france.org/newsletter

Le J.D.

Le Juris Doctor (J.D.) est le diplôme qui permet d'accéder aux professions juridiques et de passer le barreau dans l'un des 50 états américains. Il se prépare en 3 ans après avoir préalablement complété un programme préprofessionnel souvent appelé « pre-law ».

En effet, avant d’être éligible pour postuler en école de droit, les candidats en J.D. doivent d’abord valider un Bachelor’s degree (4 ans d’études supérieures). Ce Bachelor’s degree peut être obtenu dans n’importe quel domaine … sauf le droit, car aucun diplôme de droit n’est proposé pendant ce cycle undergraduate. Seule d’université d’Arizona propose un Bachelor in Law : https://law.arizona.edu/bachelor-arts-law. La plupart des candidats qui postulent en J.D. sont diplômés en science politique, histoire, littérature, psychologie ou justice pénale. En effet, les écoles de droit sont à la recherche de candidats qui ont eu d’excellents résultats pendant leurs études antérieures et qui peuvent faire preuve d’une aptitude à analyser et à rédiger, plutôt que de beaucoup de connaissances précises du droit.

Pour valider le diplôme de Juris Doctor, il faut avoir complété au moins 84 semester hours, ce qui correspond en général à trois années académiques. Ces trois années d’études fournissent aux étudiants une éducation plutôt généraliste, destinée à enseigner la « pensée légale » plutôt que des détails de chaque loi.

Le J.D. permet de passer le Bar Exam (équivalent du Barreau) de l’état où l’on souhaite exercer, mais doit provenir d’une école accréditée par l’American Bar Association.

Admission en J.D.

Une fois le cycle undergraduate achevé, le candidat/la candidate qui souhaite poursuivre en J.D. présente un dossier de candidature à chaque école de droit qui l’intéresse. Ce dossier comporte :
1. ses relevés de notes de Bachelor’s
2. des lettres de recommandation (de préférence de professeurs américains),
3. une lettre de motivation (appelé « personal statement »)
4. et ses résultats au test d’admission LSAT (Law School Admission Test). Aujourd’hui, quelques écoles de droit acceptent aussi le GRE (Graduate Record Examination) pour entrer en J.D.
Le LL.M.

Le LL.M. – c’est-à-dire Legum Magister ou Master of Laws – est un diplôme de spécialisation en droit qui se complète généralement après le J.D. Il peut concerner des domaines tels que : droit comparé, droit de l’environnement, droit fiscal, droit maritime, propriété intellectuelle, etc.

Certains programmes sont réservés aux candidats diplômés d’un J.D. américain, mais la grande majorité accepte des étudiants qui ont obtenu leur diplôme de droit à l’étranger (pour un Français il s’agit au minimum d’un Master 1 de droit).

Un LL.M. s’obtient en général au bout d’une année académique et nécessite l’obtention d’environ 24 credits.

Quels sont les différents types de programmes LL.M. proposés par les écoles de droit américaines ?

- LL.M. général avec la possibilité de prendre des cours à la carte dans le programme de J.D. ;
- LL.M. spécialisés : Business law, Environmental Law, Intellectual property, International Law, Taxation, etc.
- LL.M. programs for Foreign Lawyers and Law Graduates

LL.M. ou J.D. ?

Les étudiants français en Master de droit hésitent quelquefois entre postuler en LL.M. ou en J.D. Il y a un certain nombre de facteurs à prendre en compte :

- La validation d’un J.D. permet de passer quasiment tous les barreaux américains (en sachant que certains barreaux exigent la nationalité américaine).
- L’obtention d’un LL.M. permet de passer le barreau de New York et de Californie.
- L’obtention d’un J.D. et du barreau d’un état ne garantit pas l’acquisition d’un visa de travail américain.
- La plupart des cabinets d’avocats américains préfèrent recruter des candidats détenteurs d’un J.D. et estiment qu’un LL.M. n’est pas suffisant (même après obtention du barreau).
- Le LL.M. est en revanche très bien reconnu par la plupart des cabinets d’avocats anglo-saxons basés en dehors des Etats-Unis.
- Un J.D. dure 3 fois plus longtemps qu’un LL.M. et donc coûte 3 fois plus cher.
- Il est très difficile d’obtenir une aide financière pour les 3 ans de J.D. alors que les bourses pour un LL.M. sont beaucoup plus fréquentes.

Pourquoi choisir de faire un LL.M. aux Etats-Unis ?

- Vaste choix de programmes : près de 200 écoles de droit accréditées par l’American Bar Association proposent chacune un ou plusieurs programmes de LL.M.
- Devenir expert en common law et acquérir le vocabulaire juridique anglo-américain ;
- Se familiariser avec un enseignement socratique très rigoureux ;
- Bénéficier du prestige du système d’enseignement supérieur américain ;
- Développer son réseau professionnel international grâce aux alumni.

Comment choisir un programme de LL.M. ?

Les critères suivants sont à prendre en compte :

- Spécialités proposées et options,
- Accueil/intégration des candidats internationaux,
- Aide pour la recherche de stages,
• Taille/environnement/equipement de l’école de droit,
• Coût du programme/bourses proposées.

Autres programmes en droit

M.C.L. : Master of Comparative Law, programme qui, comme son nom l’indique, se concentre particulièrement sur le droit comparé. Les conditions d’admission sont à peu près les mêmes que pour un LL.M.

Le Doctor of Juridical Science (D.J.S.) ou Doctor of the Science of Law (J.S.D.), s’obtient en général au bout d’un an, après avoir au préalable, compléter un LL.M. Comme tout doctorat, il est plutôt destiné aux personnes qui souhaitent se spécialiser dans la recherche ou dans l’enseignement à l’université.

Un certain nombre d’écoles de droit propose également des sessions d’été destinées plus particulièrement aux étudiants internationaux qui souhaitent avoir une initiation au droit américain ou des cours d’anglais spécialisés en droit américain. Des séminaires sont également proposés aux personnes qui ont déjà une certaine expérience professionnelle.

Aides financières

Les écoles de droit ont des frais de scolarité parmi les plus onéreux. Comptez entre $25,000 et plus de $70,000 dollars de frais de scolarité annuels qu’il faut multiplier par trois pour un J.D. A cela, s’ajoute les dépenses courantes (logement, pension alimentaire et autres dépenses personnelles) qui dépendent de la région où se trouve l’université (entre $700 et $2500 par mois).

La plupart des étudiants américains obtiennent des prêts qu’ils remboursent avec leur premier salaire qui est généralement largement suffisant. Les programmes de JD offrent également des bourses de mérite basées sur les scores au LSAT et les relevés de notes du Bachelor’s degree.

En revanche, ces prêts et bourses de mérite sont rarement accordés aux étudiants étrangers pour la préparation du JD. Ces derniers sont plus susceptibles de recevoir une bourse de leur université d’accueil s’ils complètent un Master of Laws (LL.M.) dont les frais de scolarité sont similaires au JD mais seulement pour une année. Renseignez-vous directement auprès de chaque bureau d’admission (voir page 12 pour une liste d’universités proposant des programmes de LL.M. et indiquant les bourses offertes par chaque institution).

Les bourses de la Commission Fulbright franco-américaine

Les citoyens français qui postulent pour un Master of Laws, peuvent se porter candidat au programme Fulbright géré par la Commission franco-américaine. Il s’agit d’une bourse de mérite d’une année académique non-renouvelable, d’un montant de 30 000$. Le dossier de candidature au programme Étudiant Fulbright vous permet de postuler simultanément à plusieurs bourses de fondations partenaires de la Commission, selon votre domaine d’études. Pour le droit, vous pouvez également postuler pour :

• Fondation Monahan –droit appliqué aux sciences du vivant et à la propriété intellectuelle.
• Fondation Georges Lurcy –sciences humaines et sociales, arts et lettres, droit, et autre domaine relatif à la culture américaine
• Dotation Arthur Sachs – éligibilité : étudiant postulant ou admis à l’université d’Harvard
• Herbert Smith Freehills - Cercle Montesquieu –droit parcours LLM
• McDermott Will & Emery –droit parcours LLM
• Fulbright-University of Pennsylvania Carey Law School – LL.M à University of Pennsylvania
• Fulbright-Vanderbilt University Law School –LLM à Vanderbilt University Law School
• Leonora Lindsley Memorial Fellowship – tous domaines - candidats descendants de résistants pour une mobilité au niveau master uniquement
Des informations détaillées se trouvent sur notre site Internet : www.fulbright-france.org, rubrique « Bourses Fulbright et Partenaires ».

Attention : les dossiers de candidature pour les bourses gérées par la Commission franco-américaine doivent être soumis avant le 1er décembre pour débuter un programme à la rentrée d'automne qui suit.

Les bourses des cabinets d'avocat

Herbert Smith Freehills - Cercle Montesquieu :
Chaque année, le cabinet Herbert Smith Freehills et le Cercle Montesquieu proposent deux bourses d'études à des étudiants en droit qui souhaitent suivre un LLM aux Etats-Unis (en association avec la Commission Franco-Américaine Fulbright) ou au Royaume-Uni (en association avec le programme Entente Cordiale du British Council). Montant maximum : 10 000€

McDermott Will & Emery
Une à deux bourses par an d'un montant maximum de 20 000€. Le dossier de candidature au Programme Fulbright Etudiant permet de postuler simultanément à la bourse McDermott Will & Emery et aux autres bourses

Jim Hurlock – White & Case Scholarship Program - White & Case LLP est un cabinet d'avocats international présent dans 25 pays dans le monde. Son cabinet français propose des bourses pour aller faire des études de 3ème cycle à l'étranger, par exemple un LLM en droit des affaires dans une université américaine. Attention : cette bourse n'est pas gérée par la Commission franco-américaine.

Les échanges interuniversitaires

Beaucoup de facultés de droit en France ont des accords d'échanges avec des universités américaines. Dans ce cadre il est parfois possible de ne payer aucun frais de scolarité et/ou d'avoir des bourses du gouvernement français ou de votre conseil régional/départemental. Vous ne pouvez cependant participer qu'aux échanges organisés par votre université en France. Pour en savoir plus, contacter le service des relations internationales de votre institution d'accueil en France.

LL.M. et passage du barreau

Les Etats-Unis étant un pays fédéral, il existe un barreau par état. Les juristes étrangers ne peuvent pas toujours passer l'un des examens du barreau des Etats-Unis. Renseignez-vous auprès de l'école de droit où vous souhaitez étudier et auprès de chaque state board of law examiners. Beaucoup d'états exigent l'obtention du JD dans une école accréditée aux Etats-Unis avant d'être éligible pour passer leur barreau. Les conditions requises pour passer le barreau de chaque état pour un candidat ayant eu un diplôme de droit en dehors des Etats-Unis sont expliquées dans cette publication du National Conference of Bar Examiners : Comprehensive Guide to Bar Admissions (chart 4 : Foreign Legal Education)

Les deux barreaux américains les plus ouverts aux juristes étrangers sont ceux de l'état de New York et de la Californie. Pour ces deux états il est possible de passer le barreau après avoir effectué sa formation initiale en dehors des Etats-Unis et ensuite avoir complété un LL.M. dans une école accréditée aux Etats-Unis.

De plus, les juristes français qui ont obtenu le barreau de New York ou de Californie peuvent être exemptés du passage par un CRFPA et de l’obtention du CAPA. En effet, les dispositions de l’article 100 du décret du 27 novembre 1991 permettent à un avocat membre d’un barreau dans un État n’appartenant pas à l’Union européenne et non titulaire du CAPA de s’inscrire à un barreau français sous réserve de réussir un examen de contrôle des connaissances en droit français (voir le site du conseil national des barreaux : www.cnb.avocat.fr/fr/admission-dun-avocat-dun-etat-non-membre-de-lunion-europeenne).

Double cursus droit français et anglo-américain

Il est parfois possible de faire un double cursus droit français et anglo-américain dans une université française avec quelquefois la possibilité de passer une partie de son cursus dans une université partenaire aux Etats-Unis. Les cours de droit anglo-américain seront dispensés en anglais. Même si l’université française n’a pas de partenariat spécifique avec des universités américaines, ces double-cursus vous permettent d’avoir un bon niveau d’anglais et une première initiation au droit anglo-américain. C’est un plus pour l’entrée en LL.M. aux Etats-Unis.

Voici quelques exemples :

CY Cergy Paris Université :
- Licence 1 Droit, parcours Droit anglo-américain – CY Cergy Paris Université
- Master 2 – option droit anglo-américain

Université de Clermont – Auvergne :
- DU – Droit Américain

Université du Havre :
- Licence Droit parcours bilingue anglo-américaine
- Master Droit international des affaires

Université Lyon 3 – Jean Moulin :
- Master Droit Privé international et comparé / LLM comparative Law (Louisiana State University en 2ème année)

Université de Nanterre :
- Licence Bilingue Droit français – Common Law – Paris Nanterre
- Master Bilingue Droit français – Common Law – Paris Nanterre
- Double diplôme avec American University

Université Paris 1 – Panthéon Sorbonne :
- Le programme franco-américain Université de Columbia & Sorbonne / Université de Cornell & Sorbonne (niveau Master)

Université Paris Cité :
- DU LLM in anglo-american business law
- DU LLM in international law

UVSQ – Université Paris Saclay :
- Double diplomation de Licence mentions Droit et LLCER (Anglais) – Université de Versailles St Quentin en Yvelines (les étudiants sont encouragés à partir en échange à l’étranger dès la 3ème année)

La Grande École du Droit de l’Université Paris-Saclay :
Sciences Po Paris :
• Double diplôme Sciences Po Paris et Georgetown Law School
• Double diplôme Sciences Po Paris et University of Pennsylvania Law School

Admission dans un programme LL.M.

En général, un candidat doit présenter un dossier auprès de chaque école de droit dans laquelle il souhaite postuler.

La plupart des programmes admettent les étudiants pour la fall admission (fin août-début septembre), quelques-unes vont également accepter les étudiants pour la spring admission (vers le mois de janvier). Les dates limites de candidature se situent souvent entre janvier et avril pour la rentrée de septembre. Il est important de commencer les démarches au moins un an avant le début des cours.

Que contient un dossier de candidature en LL.M. ?

• Le formulaire (application) propre à chaque université qui doit généralement être rempli en ligne ;
• Un test d’anglais (TOEFL ou IELTS) ;
• Vos relevés de notes depuis la 1ère année d’études supérieures traduits en anglais
• Deux/trois lettres de recommandation de professeurs/d’employeurs;
• Une ou plusieurs lettres de motivation (essay/personal statement) ;
• Votre CV
• Des frais de dossier variant de 50$ à plus de 100$
• Le LSAT n’est quasiment jamais requis pour entrer en LL.M. (demandé uniquement au candidat en J.D.)

Law School Admission Council (LSAC):

De plus en plus d’écoles de droit exigent des candidats qu’ils s’inscrivent au LLM Credential Assembly Service du Law School Admission Council (LSAC)- une plateforme en ligne qui gère les inscriptions dans les écoles de droit. Ce service permet de rassembler vos documents (relevés de notes, lettres de recommandation et scores au test d’anglais) en une seule fois et se charge de les dispatcher aux universités de votre choix.

Vous trouverez ci-dessous les étapes à effectuer.

A noter : vous devriez vous inscrire et régler les frais du service au moins 6 semaines avant la première date limite des écoles de droit auxquelles vous postulez.

1. Créez un compte d’utilisateur sur le site https://www.lsac.org/llm
2. Sélectionnez les écoles de droit auxquelles vous postulez à partir de la rubrique « School Search ».
3. Envoyez au LSAC par le biais du « Transcript Request Form » : des copies certifiées de vos relevés de notes et diplômes des études post-bac, ainsi qu’une traduction mot pour mot en anglais.

NB : Une traduction assermentée n’est pas obligatoire. Elle peut être faite par vous-même ou un professeur d’anglais, par exemple. Traduisez le texte et les noms des matières, mais laissez les notes sur une échelle de 20.
Les documents en français doivent être certifiés conformes par l’université, c'est-à-dire, comporter un tampon pour attester de leur authenticité. L'université doit mettre les documents dans une enveloppe scellée, avec le cachet de l'établissement apposé sur la fermeture de l'enveloppe.

Il n'est pas nécessaire de mettre les traductions des diplômes et relevés de notes dans une enveloppe scellée par votre université, donc vous pouvez les envoyer vous-même directement au LSAC.

4. Enregistrez les noms et coordonnées de vos référents pour qu'ils remplissent leur lettre en ligne sur le site du LSAC. Faites traduire les lettres qui ne sont pas rédigées en anglais.

5. Passez un test d'anglais (TOEFL ou IELTS) et faites en sorte que les scores arrivent directement aux services du LSAC.

6. Remplissez le dossier des écoles de droit que vous avez sélectionnées.

7. Payez les services du LSAC (85$ + 30$ par université)

8. Payez également les frais de dossier de chaque école (entre 50$ et 150$ par université)

The LLM program at Duke Law School is designed to introduce international law graduates to the legal system of the United States and to provide the opportunity to take advanced courses in specialized areas of the law. LLM students are able to select courses from the full JD curriculum, including clinics and externships, and join extracurricular activities such as law journals and moot court teams. Duke's goal is to integrate LLM and JD students in the whole life of Duke Law School. Students also may take courses in other parts of the university, such as the Fuqua School of Business or the Sanford School of Public Policy. Duke also offers certificates in Environmental Law, Business Law, and Intellectual Property Law as part of the LLM program.

If you are looking for an eclectic, comfortable, American city with great restaurants, abundant entertainment, and easy access to the beach, mountains, and parks, Durham is the place for you. The city and surrounding areas have a high concentration of researchers from around the world who work for one of the area's many universities or high-tech companies. You'll experience the famous "southern charm" and hospitality that is unique to this region of the United States. And Durham is ranked as one of the best and most affordable places to live in America.

Indiana University Maurer School of Law has been granting graduate degrees to outstanding international students for more than 100 years in LL.M., M.C.L., S.J.D., and Ph.D. programs. Each year, we enroll 65 to 75 new graduate students coming from all over the world. JD and graduate students take most of their classes together, which further enhances learning both in and outside of the classroom. For students whose language skills are not yet high enough, we offer a two-year program with English for law, leading to the LL.M. degree. For students interested in gaining U.S. legal experience or taking a bar exam, Indiana Law offers a wealth of programming and opportunities, such as the Learning & Working (LAW) program that offers clinics, moot court, internships, and pro bono work. Indiana Law is located in Bloomington, Indiana, a charming, safe, affordable college town with the sophistication of a large city. The low cost of living, combined with our merit and need-based scholarships, makes Indiana Law an exceptional value.

Loyola University of Chicago, Chicago, IL

Loyola Chicago’s LLM Program for International Lawyers, launched in 2012, has enrolled students from over 50 countries worldwide who have formed a strong global network. Many of our accomplished young lawyers begin their post-graduate careers in Chicago and stay involved with Loyola’s community. We admit only a fairly small group of students both in January and in August, which allows us to provide individualized academic and career counseling throughout the course of your study and beyond. Loyola’s faculty are noted researchers, inspiring teachers, and engaged advisors who deeply care about their students’ progress.

Loyola’s LLM Program for International Lawyers features two tracks: Immersion in U.S. Law for Foreign Lawyers (Track I), and International Law with Focus Option (Track II). This structure allows our students great flexibility to design their curriculum and meet their own academic and professional interests. Many choose a certificate focus in a field of law offered by Loyola’s centers and institutes: arbitration, mediation, and negotiation; business; child and family; competition; environmental; health; human rights; immigration; intellectual property; tax; or trade law. Others develop their own focus under the guidance of Loyola’s faculty. The innovative curriculum of over 200 courses per year includes core subjects, challenging upper-level courses, and classes that teach professional skills necessary for effective participation in the legal profession. The international students join the JD students in the classrooms to promote integration and cross-cultural learning.

Loyola Law School, Los Angeles, Los Angeles, CA

Loyola Law School is located in the legal, financial and media capital of Los Angeles. It is home to world-renowned faculty, and academic programs at the leading edge of the legal field. Our students want to change the world, and they're doing it.

Loyola Law is the first ABA-approved school in California with a pro bono graduation requirement and we are committed to ethics and the public interest. Our 1,100 students donate more than 40,000 hours per year to nonprofit organizations and have helped get five wrongly convicted people out of prison and off of death row.

Entertainment law, cybersecurity, juvenile justice, conflict resolution and immigration law are a few of the areas where Loyola Law is defining the state of the art. And our programs in China and Italy reflect a recognition that for our students, the entire globe is home.

At NYU, you will find powerhouse graduate programs in business and finance, international law, and taxation. You will learn from more than 100 influential academics in areas as diverse as constitutional law, criminal law, economic analysis of law, environmental law, legal philosophy, intellectual property, and competition policy. You will train for the profession through practice-based options, such as transactional classes, simulation courses, and clinical opportunities, and explore new perspectives on legal questions by attending classes at other divisions of the university. You will join classmates from around the world who will bring their insights and experience to the classroom while becoming your friends and personal global network.

All this happens at NYU Law's campus in Greenwich Village in downtown Manhattan. It is a charming and vibrant place with a neighborhood feel and energetic culture. You will engage with New York’s leading practitioners and policymakers both in and out of the classroom. Visits from prominent government officials; members of the judiciary; and leaders of the UN, international organizations, and NGOs will further enrich your experience. NYU Law’s Graduate Division, one of the largest and most diverse in the nation, offers an array of degrees and programs, including nine different LLM degrees and a JSD. You will enjoy the flexibility to design your curriculum, whether as a student in the Master of Laws program or one of our eight LLM specializations. Members of our faculty direct each of our programs, serving as mentors to the students.

Texas A&M School of Law, Fort Worth, TX

The LLM is a one-year program offering a concentrated course of post-graduate legal study for practicing lawyers and graduates of foreign or domestic law schools. Texas A&M’s LLM is offered in-residence on our Dallas/Fort Worth (DFW) campus in North Texas. As part of the program, all students complete an introductory course on the U.S. legal system, which will familiarize you with the structure of the U.S. legal system, fundamentals of legal reasoning and analysis, and core concepts in the major areas of U.S. law. Additional required coursework helps our LLM’s perfect research and writing skills. Our LLM students are able to take the Texas Bar Exam. Beyond that foundational coursework, students can draw from the Law School’s broad menu of courses – in which you will have the opportunity to get to know and collaborate with our J.D. students. In particular, you might focus their coursework in one of the Texas A&M Law’s areas of distinctive strengths in: Intellectual Property, Technology & Innovation; Energy & Environmental Law; Arbitration & Mediation; Cybersecurity & Privacy; Business Law, and Criminal Law.

A degree from Texas A&M University — a Tier 1 research institution and the largest university in the United States — is recognized worldwide, is highly marketable, and is well supported by the 500,000-strong Aggie Network. The Law School, meanwhile, is the fastest rising law school in the United States – rising 23 places in the U.S. News & World Report rankings just this year. Over the last five years, it has seen the largest increases in reputation and in student quality of any law school in the United States.

Fletcher's Master of Laws (LL.M.) in International Law is designed for lawyers interested in gaining broad expertise in international law. Our LL.M. reflects Fletcher's goal of increasing international understanding and preparing students from around the globe for leadership positions. We differ from traditional law schools because the program is focused exclusively on issues of public and private international law. Our courses cover the spectrum of international law and are taught by experts with both academic expertise and extensive real-world experience. The interdisciplinary nature of our program allows you, as a student, to see issues of international law in their social, economic, and political contexts. As an LL.M. student at Fletcher, you build a strong foundation in international law, and will have the opportunity to complement that foundation with courses from the diverse group of political science, history, business and economics courses that make up the Fletcher curriculum.

The University of Chicago Law School is about ideas. This is what sets us apart from other law schools: we have an unabashed enthusiasm for the life of the mind—the conviction that ideas matter, that they are worth discussing, and that legal education should devote itself to learning for learning's sake, not just for earning's sake. UChicago Law is small enough to allow students regular, in-depth interaction with their professors, who take a deep interest in their success. But the Law School also offers a chance to be part of the larger, world-class UChicago community—and to engage with a Law School alumni network that stretches from Congress and the federal bench to academia, public service, business, law firm practice, and nearly every corner of the profession. The result is an unmatched energy, camaraderie, and way of thinking that UChicago Law students carry with them long after they graduate.

The University of Georgia School of Law offers a rigorous LL.M. program for foreign-educated lawyers who aim to advance their careers through acquisition of specialized knowledge and familiarity with the U.S. legal system. The University of Georgia (UGA), founded in 1785, is the flagship institution of the state of Georgia and one of the nation's top universities for technology commercialization. It is located in the college town of Athens, just 70 miles away from Atlanta, an international trade hub. Athens offers a lively arts and music scene and its low cost of living and mild climate make the city especially attractive to international students.

LL.M. candidates join a law school community where preeminent professors are accessible and individualized academic and career mentoring is the norm. Diverse curricular offerings include experiential learning opportunities. Interested LL.M. students may apply to UGA's Terry College of Business to pursue a two-year dual LL.M./MBA degree. Georgia is among the U.S. states that allow lawyers with a foreign legal education to apply to take the state bar exam. Those LL.M. students who are interested in preparing to take a U.S. bar exam in Georgia or another U.S. state receive guidance and support. A broad array of student organizations strengthens the School of Law's extracurricular offerings, and the Dean Rusk International Law Center provides a rich variety of international programming, including high profile conferences and panels with scholars, practitioners, and government officials. Our students and graduates' benefit from ties to a distinguished global alumni network.

For more than 130 years, the University of Michigan has been welcoming an LLM class to Ann Arbor, integrating clever lawyers from around the globe into our academic and social community. Our flexible curriculum allows students to specialize as they like or study more broadly. In fact, students can supplement the Law School’s course offerings with courses at the University’s 18 other schools and colleges to gain a truly interdisciplinary perspective. Our reasonable LLM class size means students are treated like people instead of numbers. Our rigorous curriculum asks students to challenge themselves intellectually, while our vibrant college town permits students to play and explore in the heart of America.

Michigan’s connections to Europe are genuine and strong. The field of European Union law was founded on our campus by the late Professor Eric Stein. Likewise, the European Journal of International Law and its society were established in Ann Arbor. As a result, many of our professors today continue to research and impact the development of law in Europe. Daniel Halberstam, Mathias Reimann, Chris McCrudden, Bruno Simma, Anne Peters, and Christine Chinkin are just a few examples. Michigan Law is a particularly good choice for students interested in a comparative view of US-European law, but it is also a good choice for people who are curious, fearless, and ready for great challenges and great results.

The University of Pennsylvania Law School grants a generalized LLM, allowing students to design their own curriculum. This tailored program is a full-time course of study geared primarily for lawyers trained outside the United States. You’ll have the opportunity to take charge of your education and select courses from the extensive curriculum offered at Penn Law as you see fit. As an LLM student, you’ll join upper-level JD students in our advanced courses. Our program is ten months and includes a five-week Pre-Term Program and includes the opportunity to enroll in the Wharton Business and Law Certificate, a custom designed program only for our LLM students.

Vanderbilt University Law School, Nashville, TN

Vanderbilt Law School is a top ranked law school located on the beautiful Vanderbilt University campus set in the urban heart of Nashville, Tennessee. The law school combines the advantages of a stimulating university community, a top-tier faculty, a small, carefully selected student body, and a sophisticated, vibrant city. Vanderbilt Law School attracts law students seeking a first-rate academic institution that also affords an excellent quality of life. Vanderbilt offers three LL.M. program options: a general LL.M. degree, a specialized LL.M. in Law and Business, and a Thesis Track option. All program options offer the courses required to qualify for the New York bar exam.

Vanderbilt LL.M. students choose their courses from the law school’s extensive curriculum to concentrate in areas including Law & Business; Law & Innovation, Litigation & Dispute Resolution; Intellectual Property; International Legal Studies; Energy, Environment and Land Use; and Criminal Justice. Students interested in focusing on Corporate Law have the opportunity to earn the LL.M. degree with a certificate of specialization in Law & Business.

LL.M. students are fully integrated into the Vanderbilt community, studying alongside American and other international students in the J.D. program. Vanderbilt’s small LL.M. program size makes it possible for students to enjoy greater access to faculty and promotes a sense of community that is one of Vanderbilt’s most distinguishing attributes. An extensive network of more than 8,500 alumni in 49 states, DC, three US territories, and 32 foreign nations reflects the school’s national and international reach.
